

Biography for Jonathan Wise

Jonathan worked in advertising for 15 years before completing a Masters in Sustainability and Responsibility at Ashridge School. There he learnt that the better he did his job in getting people to buy more stuff, the more environmental damage he caused. This truth led him to quit, and he now works to help transform the advertising industry away from driving unsustainable consumption. He has presented at COP26 in Glasgow and is currently a tutor at the Cambridge Institute of Sustainability Leadership. He and his partner, Kath, moved into the area in 2020 (38 metres above sea-level) and joined PACE quickly afterwards, volunteering and helping develop the organisational strategy.

Jonathan is a trustee of PACE Manningtree and his present term ends 29th September 2027.
